

NvCLPPP, in partnership with all health districts in Nevada, aims to reduce the long-term health risk of childhood lead poisoning through improved methods of surveillance, education, and intervention.

We are committed to:

INCREASING blood lead level testing and surveillance for children ages 6 and under.

CONNECTING families to the necessary services if their children are exposed to lead.

PROVIDING families, medical providers, and community partners with educational workshops and materials on how to prevent childhood lead poisoning.

WORKING with other organizations with a focus in health and wellness, family support, housing, and childhood education.
